The core director also commented on the core budget. Realistically there is no core budget. Any course enrichment grants or course development grants came funneled up from the Dean's office. Those funds may be reduced this year. He indicated that the committee will look at all requests that come in, but realistically may not be able to fund as much as in previous years.

Another focus will be the recruitment for new core courses, specifically linked courses. The committee talked holding a "speed dating" session among departments and their faculty. Other ideas may be to publically recognizing faculty that have taught linked courses for an "x" amount of time (i.e. plaque, etc.) The Dean mentioned that the Elliance presentation identified disciplines that may work together and those may produce linked pairs.
